WINDHAM COUNTY IN CIVIL WAR DAYS

Ralph C. Young Has Book Which Tells About the Patriotism in This Section.

A military and civil history of Connecticut that has come into the hands of Ralph C. Young tells a story of war something of the patriotism that animated the people of towns in this section of Windham county during Civil War days.

A paragraph from one section of this history is of great local interest in the present stirring times:

"In Windham county the capture of Fort Sumter created a profound sensation. This county led all other counties of the state, in her prompt response with her volunteers to the call when the Revolutionary war began at Lexington, and she was not behind when the republic was assailed by internal foes.

A county mass meeting was held at Brooklyn, ex-Governor Chauncey S. Cleveland presiding. Earnest war speeches were made by the president, Colonel D. P. F. Keach, E. W. H. Burbee and others. The sum of $5,000 was subscribed on the spot. Hon. W. H. Chandler leading the paper with $500, and a volunteer company of 60 men was raised in 30 minutes. Resolutions were adopted declaring that the citizens of the county would spend their last dollar and exhaust their last drop of blood rather than consent to a disruption of the Union."

There was also this first week of recruiting a meeting at Putnam, with its name and of the crisis. E. W. H. Burbee presided and speeches were made by Rev. W. C. Walker, Dr. Plympton, G. W. Phillips and others. Patriotic resolutions were adopted and thirty men instantly volunteered.

A war meeting was held at Danielsonville (Killingly) with good effect. There was also a large meeting at Danville, where, in less than 40 minutes, 56 men enrolled themselves, the venerable Captain John Day at their head. Windham had a similar meeting and raised $2,000 to equip a company and voted to pay all volunteers $12 a month extra and $1 a week for each child under 12 years of age. Canterbury made a similar liberal offer. Pomfret was ever more generous, voting $20 a month to each volunteer, for the three months' service, and six dollars a month to the wife, and $2 a month to each child under 14 years."

This splendid spirit of '61, reflecting the spirit of independence of '76, is yet alive in old Windham county, as attested by the proud place to which its young men have brought in among the counties of Connecticut in furnishing volunteers for the giant struggle that has for its aim the crushing of the most hideous and barbarous menace liberty has been called upon to face.

One quickly notices today the difference in the ancestry, as indicated by the names of the volunteers of today as compared with the volunteers of the revolution and the rebellion, but the spirit is identical and the ideal the same, the preservation of the sacred right of liberty and independence, and the greatest satisfaction in all this is that it means the undying spirit of the democracy of the signers of the declaration of independence is as brilliantly militant in the United States today as in the days when this country was without the many peoples that now are included in its hundred millions.

GROVENORDALE CO. OVERSEERS HONOR JOHN F. REARDON.

Tendered Retiring Agent Farewell Banquet and Reception.

In honor of John F. Reardon, who Saturday retired as agent of the Grovenordale company, the overseers employed in the Grovenordale company's mills held an outdoor celebration in the nature of a farewell reception Saturday afternoon on Reardon hill, North Grovenordale. All of the stores in the villages of North Grovenordale and Grovenordale closed at 2 o'clock, and from that time on there was a general holiday spirit prevailing everywhere. The festivities began at 2:45 when Fire Companies A and B, wearing the uniforms that were presented to them by Mr. Reardon, marched to the Reardon home, and then escorted the retiring agent to the field where the exercises took place.

Here the citizens of the two villages had gathered, and under the direction of E. H. Kristek, one of the overseers, who acted as master of ceremonies, the program of sports that had been arranged was carried out. There was a drill by the members of the Grovenordale North Grovenordale, drills by Boy Scouts, and a ball game between the two fire companies. The Band Canadienne furnished music.

During the program Mr. Kristek, in behalf of the mill employees, presented to Mr. Reardon a beautiful coonskin coat, hat to match, and a complete automobile robe.

Following the program on the field, the overseers came to Putnam by automobile and gathered at the Putnam inn, where at 7:30 an informal banquet was given by the company in honor of Mr. Reardon. About 40 covered were in the hall. William Grovenordale, president of the company, and A. W. Dimick, both of Providence, were present at the banquet, as well as a large

DIAMOND ROBBERY

Albert Talnos Held for Disappearance of Precious Stones From McEwen & Chapin's Store.

Information relative to a diamond robbery was made public here Saturday. Precious stones to a value of nearly $1,000 have been taken from the store of McEwen & Chapin.

It is understood that discovery of the loss was not made until Friday, when a clerk in the store sought the diamond cases in the safe that some of the stones might be displayed in the show window.

It is believed that the diamonds were taken from the safe as an opportunity offered to some person who came into the store at a time when all of the clerks were busy and when the doors of the safe had been left open.

In connection with their investigation of the case officials took into custody on Saturday Albert Talnos, and this led to knowledge of the firm's loss becoming generally known.

Talos was questioned at length by Prosecuting Attorney Arthur G. Bill, but stoutly denied having any knowledge of the disappearance of the stones or anything about them.

He was locked up at the police station, and was being held there, in default of bonds. Sunday, Talnos is a young man who has been employed in a local mill, but for some time past has been incapacitated on account of injuries.

Capture Network of German Trenches and Many Prisoners.
Paris, July 15.—A strong and well-organized network of German trenches on a front of more than 800 yards and 200 yards in depth, north to Mont Haut and northwest of the Teton in the Champagne, was captured by the French in a brilliant attack last night, with 30 prisoners, the war office announced today.
The Germans made a heavy attack on the salient west of Cerny on the Aisne front and penetrated to a position from which they were able to fire on the French lines.
